After a competitive process, Helbiz was selected as a new vendor for the micro-mobility program in Alexandria, VA. The company will also expand its program in Arlington, VA, to include e-bikes in addition to its original fleet of scooters. These will be the first markets in the D.C. area to offer this bike model, featuring the latest GPS technology to identify no-ride zones and slow riders down in designated areas.

"We are proud to continue growing with how we service the D.C. area, adding a new city with Alexandria and expanding our fleet in Arlington," said Salvatore Palella, Helbiz CEO. "The Helbiz e-bike is the most advanced bike available in the D.C. area, offering riders a safe, energy-efficient way to get where they need to go."

The lightweight model is equipped with a Shimano 3-speed hub for better energy efficiency and an enclosed front basket with a phone holder to protect small items while riding. In addition, each Helbiz e-bike
